

Welcome to the 29th Annual Birding Festival!

If you want to add 30-plus new birds to your life list, memory card, or just your memory, come join us for the 2022 Rio Grande Valley Birding Festival in Harlingen, TX. The dates are Nov 9-13.

There are many field trip offerings to choose from, with trips going to the traditional spots, and as always, some new trips added for our return visitors. Special trips in the field with our featured speakers to further enhance their presentations will be super exciting. With the coast about 30 miles away, hints of the Chihuahuan Desert only 2 hours to the west, and the ribbon of the Rio Grande to our south, we have lots of habitat and a huge diversity of birds to offer!

We offer field trips, keynote speakers, workshops, fun socials, and lots of birds. Plan to join us in 2022!

FIELD TRIPS

FIELD GUIDE TO THE ICONS

The RGVPBF has long been known for its low ratio of participants to guides and for the quality of its leaders. Check out the Trip Leaders section on the webpage for a summary of this year's guides. We have an outstanding group of talent this year to guide our field trips. Also expanded this year is the Young Birders track plus a series of trips for mobility- or visually- challenged birders and photographers.

While we have kept the classic field trips that define our Festival, we have also added a few new locations, and a few twists on old favorites. Click on Trip Worksheet on the webpage for a simple overview of the daily trips. Below is a more detailed daily description of the activities offered.

IMPORTANT NOTES ON TRIPS:

We encourage you to find overnight accommodations in Harlingen during the Festival – trips leave early!

Most PhotoTrack trips meet at the destination site

Vegetarian box lunches available when lunch is provided – choose when registering online.

so stay on paths when on field trips and avoid tall grasses.
Bring appropriate remedies if chiggers love you.

Water is provided. Bring your water bottles & fill'em up in the lobby.

Check with driver to be sure your scope and tripod will fit on vans.
On bus trips, tripods may need to be stored in luggage area of bus.

ARROYO COLORADO UNIT

with Ernesto Garcia-Ortega

Fee $90 / Wednesday, Thursday 6:30am – 12pm

This is a rare opportunity to visit the Arroyo Colorado Unit of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. This Wildlife Management Area is closed to visitors, but we've arranged a special tour for the Festival. In recent years, this area of thornscrub near the Arroyo Colorado has had a variety of rarities including Blue Bunting and Rose-throated Becard.

Targets: White-tipped Dove, Golden-fronted and Ladder-backed Woodpecker, Great Kiskadee, Carolina Wren, Long-billed Thrasher, Orange-crowned Warbler, Olive Sparrow.

LAGUNA MADRE ISLANDS AND WATERBIRD CONSERVATION

with Justin LeClaire

Fee $110 / Wednesday, Friday 6:30am – 12:30pm

This is a wonderful opportunity for a small group to explore the world-class Laguna Madre and Arroyo Colorado by boat and get close, intimate views of birds utilizing this coastal ecosystem. The Laguna Madre encompasses vital breeding, foraging, and roosting habitat for dozens of species of waterbirds and shorebirds in the form of dense rookery spoil islands, extensive prey-rich tidal mudflats, and complex black mangrove marshes among many other habitat features. Justin is an Avian Conservation Biologist with the Coastal Bend Bays & Estuaries Program, which has researched, monitored, and managed important spoil islands and mudflats for waterbirds throughout the Central and Lower Texas Coast for decades.

Note: Although there will be excellent photo opportunities, please only bring hand-held cameras for the boat trip. Much of the trip will be spent standing or sitting on an outboard boat in potentially windy conditions. A restroom will only be available at the start and end of the boat tour. It can be cool on the boat, so bring an extra layer! Life jackets will be provided.

Targets: Close views of herons and egrets, gulls and terns and, with luck, the striking 'Mangrove' Yellow Warbler.

BAHIA GRANDE UNIT

Fee $90 / Wednesday, Saturday 6:30am – 12:30pm

The ongoing restoration of the Bahia Grande is the most significant environmental success in South Texas in recent years. Over 21,000 acres were acquired as part of Laguna Atascosa NWR in 2000. At that time, because construction of the Intracoastal Waterway had severed its connections to the Bay, Bahia Grande was an arid wasteland with only ephemeral wet areas. New channels have now been excavated, restoring a more natural tidal flow. On this trip, we'll have an opportunity of witnessing the dramatic results and the privilege of birding an area not generally open to the public.

Note: There are no on-site restroom facilities. We will have a restroom stop before and after our birding.

Targets: Herons, egrets, shorebirds, gulls and terns, Aplomado Falcon, White-tailed Hawk, wintering sparrows.

BENTSEN-RGV STATE PARK

Fee $85 / Wednesday, Friday, Sunday 6:30am – 12:30pm

With its nearly 800 acres of land and bird list of some 360 species, it's not surprising that this oldest of the South Texas state parks was chosen as the headquarters of the World Birding Center complex. The woodlands are home to many Valley specialties; the hawk tower gives uninterrupted views of the skies; and the gardens surrounding the green-designed Visitor Center are a magnet for butterflies and hummingbirds.

Targets: Plain Chachalaca, Hook-billed Kite (rare), Gray Hawk, Green Kingfisher, White-tipped Dove, Buff-bellied Hummingbird, Golden-fronted Woodpecker, Northern Beardless-Tyrannulet, Green Jay, Clay-colored Thrush, Long-billed Thrasher, Olive Sparrow, Altamira Oriole.

BIG DAY VANS

Fee $135 / Saturday 6am – 4:30pm

Ever hear about Big Days and wonder what one would be like? Here's your chance to get in on the action! Our most talked-about trips, some call it 'whirlbirding' – it's fast and furious fun. Prepare to be flexible, as routes will be chosen by your skilled leaders. Exercise those quick get-on-it skills – and wear your speedy shoes! Several vans will be involved for lots of birds and for friendly competition. This is a great choice for Festival returnees or listers. A prize will be given to the participants in the van with the longest bird species list!

Goal: Racking up an impressive day list – Valley specialties, anything, everything!

BIRD BANDING

with Mark Conway

Fee $90 / Sunday 7am - 11:30am

Join biologist and educator Mark Conway for some close encounters with Valley specialties in the picturesque grounds of Quinta Mazatlan. Mark will be demonstrating the skills of bird banding in the context of the key role it plays in his long-term studies of bird populations in the Valley.

Targets (both in hand and in field): White-tipped Dove, Golden-fronted Woodpecker, Great Kiskadee, Green Jay, Clay-colored Thrush, Altamira Oriole, Olive Sparrow.

BOCA CHICA & ROCKET RANCH

Fee $100 / Thursday, Saturday, Sunday 6:30am – 12noon

We'll explore Boca Chica Road all the way to the Gulf of Mexico, access allowing (the road is sometimes closed for SpaceX testing). If we cannot access Boca Chica Road we will explore coastal prairie habitat on other roads. This area of coastal prairie has interesting areas of salt flats, grasslands and thornscrub habitats. We will visit a new site in the Boca Chica area - Rocket Ranch, where we can bird along the Rio Grande River and take a snack and restroom break!

Important! There is a U.S. Border Patrol Check Station on Boca Chica Road. Make sure you have your driver's license or other official photographic ID with you; participants without proper identification will not be permitted to board. If you are not a U.S. citizen, please notify the festival at (956) 423-5565.

Target: Sandhill Crane, Long-billed Curlew, raptors, Ladder-backed Woodpecker, Great Kiskadee, Couch's Kingbird, Green Jay, wintering sparrows

COLLEY'S "PRIVATE" ISLAND

Edinburg Scenic Wetlands has large ponds, smaller water features, birding trails, feeding areas, butterfly gardens, observation platforms and a modern interpretative center set in some 40 acres of native vegetation and wetlands. Quinta Mazatlan is a wonderfully restored adobe hacienda set in 15 acres of sub-tropical gardens and native woodlands with birding trails, feeding stations and water features.

KING RANCH NORIAS with Tom Langschied

Fee $130 / Thursday, Friday, Sunday 6am – 1pm

Join us for an exciting excursion to the famed King Ranch, one of the largest ranches in the world (larger than Rhode Island!). The Norias division is the second largest section of this ranch and is the most southeastern of the four divisions. The sandy soils of Norias support extensive areas of grasslands, thornscrub and live oak woodlands – and more Ferruginous Pygmy-Owls than anywhere else in the U.S.!

Targets: Wild Turkey, Harris's Hawk, White-tailed Hawk, Crested Caracara, Greater Roadrunner, Ferruginous Pygmy-Owl, Vermilion Flycatcher, Sprague's Pipit, Audubon's Oriole (rare).

KLEBERG WETLANDS

Fee $130 / Wednesday, Friday, 6am – 4:30pm

One of the delights of Kleberg County, particularly in years of above average rainfall such as this, is its myriad of fresh and brackish wetlands. On this trip we'll be visiting the most productive sites and, after a picnic lunch we will visit the headquarters of the King Ranch and if time allows we'll also bird some of Kingsville's hotspots. The trip will be limited to eight participants.

Important! : There is a U.S. Border Patrol Check Station on U.S. 77. Make sure you have your driver's license or other official photo ID with you: participants without proper identification will not be permitted to board. If you are not a U.S. citizen, please notify the RGVBF at info@rgvbf.org or (956)423-5565.

Targets: Waterfowl, waders, shorebirds, sparrows.

LAGUNA ATASCOSA STEVE THOMPSON WILDLIFE DRIVE

Fee $90 / Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday, Sunday, 6:30am – 12:30pm

We're bringing back an old favorite with a new twist! The Steve Thompson Wildlife Drive has been closed to the public since 2013 as portions of the road are relocated and wildlife crossings added to help protect the federally endangered Ocelot. We will have the privilege of exploring portions of the drive (depending on construction progress). This will allow us to access locations like Redhead Ridge, a vista over the Laguna Madre where 70% of the world's Redhead population winter – and known to birders as a good place to look for Groove-billed Ani in winter. An Aplomado Falcon nest platform is visible from the drive, and we'll look for this species which has been reintroduced in south Texas in part thanks to the work of former refuge manager Steve Thompson.

Targets: Redhead, Harris's Hawk, Aplomado Falcon (fingers crossed), Groove-billed Ani (rare), Clay-colored Thrush

LEARNING TO LISTEN

with Michael O'Brien and Louise Zemaitis

Fee $85 / Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, 6:30am - 12pm

The ability to recognize bird songs and calls is critical to becoming a proficient birder. Yet many of us do have difficulty mastering the skill, often because we approach it in the wrong way. These workshops will help get us on the right path. And we will be learning from the best - Michael O'Brien (Flight Calls of Migratory Birds and Larkwire, an app for learning bird sounds) and Louise Zemaitis, who also happens to be this year's Festival artist!

OLD PORT ISABEL ROAD – APLOMADO ALLEY

Fee $100 / Thursday, Friday, Sunday 7am - 1pm

Aplomado Falcons disappeared from South Texas in the 1950s, but a successful Peregrine Fund reintroduction program was begun in earnest in 1993. Now over 30 breeding pairs grace the coastal prairies, and Old Port Isabel Road cuts right through this area. Join the search to see this beautiful species, with often a good variety of sparrows as a bonus!

Note: If the road is impassable because of wet weather, we'll seek the falcons elsewhere. Restrooms are limited.

Targets: Aplomado Falcon, Long-billed Curlew, White-tailed Kite, White-tailed and Harris's Hawks, Crested Caracara, Cactus Wren, Cassin's Sparrow, Sprague's Pipit, wintering sparrows.

PARROTS OF THE AREA

Fee $40 / Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday 4pm – 6pm

With the nesting season concluded, parrots and parakeets play hide-and-seek with us. Use your eyes and ears and join the search, while these colorful and countable tropical icons choose their nightly roost around our local urban areas.

Note: Guides will not keep an eBird list for this trip, but you are welcome to keep your own.

PORT MANSFIELD

Fee $95 / Wednesday, Thursday 6:30am – 3 pm

This trip will be an exploration of parts of Willacy County – the least birded county in the Lower Rio Grande Valley – as well as an opportunity to learn a little of its history and culture. We'll bird through the Sacahuistale Flats for a picnic lunch by the bay in Port Mansfield and take advantage of their newly improved birding boardwalks and viewing platforms. On the way back in the afternoon, we'll concentrate particularly on the many freshwater wetlands in the area. Stops will be made at public restrooms.

Targets: Waterfowl, herons and egrets, shorebirds, raptors, Cassin's Sparrow, wintering sparrows.

RAPTOR BANDING

with Bill Clark

Fee $100 /Saturday 7:30am – 12pm

The vans will meet raptor guru Bill Clark, author of the Peterson Guide to Raptors and the Raptors of Mexico and Central America, in the field where he will be banding local raptors, weather permitting. In case of adverse and unsafe conditions for trapping, we will spend our time observing raptors.

Targets: White-tailed Hawk, Harris's Hawk, American Kestrel, who knows what we will see in the hand and in the field on this unique trip!

RESACA DE LA PALMA STATE PARK & UNIVERSITY RESACAS

with Dave Irons & Shawneen Finnegan

Fee $95 / Wednesday, Thursday 7am – 1pm

Join birding luminaries Dave and Shawneen on this visit to Resaca de la Palma State Park with its 1200 acres of protected land, including the largest tract of native thornscrub and woodlands in the World Birding Center network. It's one of the less birded reserves in the Valley and every visit still has the feel of an adventure. We'll also visit a very different area in Brownsville – the resacas on the attractive campus of the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley, which have hosted some extraordinary rarities in recent years.

Targets: Black-bellied Whistling-Duck, Least Grebe, White-tailed Kite, Groove-billed Ani (rare), Buff-bellied Hummingbird, Green Kingfisher, Green Parakeet, Great Kiskadee, Tropical and Couch's Kingbirds, Black Phoebe, Bewick's Wren, wintering passerines.

RIVER PONTOON & ANZALDUAS

Fee $90 / Thursday, Saturday 6am – 1pm

Step aboard the large and comfortable Riverside Dreamer and see the Rio Grande River in a new way. The wooded banks on either side can yield many of our area's exceptional species and other exciting possibilities. A visit to Anzalduas County Park will show the river from another perspective and you'll understand why this riverside area's fame goes beyond its county park status. The mature ash and Live Oak trees can hold a wide variety of species, both resident and rare. If, as sometimes happens at short notice, Anzalduas is closed, we shall instead visit the World Birding site at Hidalgo Pumphouse.

Note: Can be cool on the boat in the mornings. Don't forget your jacket.

Targets: Hook-billed Kite (rare), Gray Hawk, Ringed and Green Kingfishers, Black Phoebe, Tropical and Couch's Kingbirds, Green Jay, Clay-colored Thrush, Long-billed and Curve-billed Thrashers, Olive Sparrow, Northern Beardless-Tyrannulet, Altamira Oriole, wintering warblers.

SABAL PALM SANCTUARY

Fee $95 / Friday, Saturday 6:30am – 12:30pm

The Sabal Palm Sanctuary is now managed by the Gorgas Science Foundation. They have done a wonderful job of enhancing the already outstanding habitats and restoring the historic Rabb Plantation House, now the Sanctuary's impressive headquarters. The forest of native Sabal Palms is the last major remnant of an ecosystem once much more widespread in the Valley, and is unique in the U.S. Its shady depths and managed waterways shelter a remarkable diversity of wildlife. There's a bird-feeding area that's great for photo-ops and active enough to support a live cam! If time permits, we shall visit a local wetland on our way back to Harlingen.

Targets: Least Grebe, Plain Chachalaca, Groove-billed Ani (rare), Buff-bellied Hummingbird, Ringed and Green Kingfishers, Tropical and Couch's Kingbirds, Clay-colored Thrush, Hooded and Altamira Orioles, Olive Sparrow, wintering warblers.

SANTA ANA NWR

Fee $85 / Thursday, Saturday, Sunday 6:30am – 12:30pm

Widely famous and justly so, Santa Ana NWR has one of the highest bird counts in the entire U.S. NWR system. The riparian woodlands and cattail-lined waterways of Santa Ana are a great place to experience many of the Valley's compelling species. Added attractions are the 40' hawk-watch tower and the suspended walkway, offering rare views of birds and their habitat from above the forest canopy.

Targets: Mottled Duck, Plain Chachalaca, Least Grebe, Long-billed Dowitcher, Groove-billed Ani (rare), Ringed and Green Kingfishers, Northern Beardless -Tyrannulet, Green Jay, Clay-colored Thrush, Olive Sparrow

SHOREBIRD FIELD WORKSHOP

Fee $100 / Thursday, Friday, Sunday 6am – 1pm

Many birders profess difficulty in identifying shorebirds, but it is a skill that can readily be acquired. Once mastered, it is both a pleasure in itself and a potential tool to aid shorebird conservation - shorebird numbers can, after all, only be accurately monitored if they can be identified with confidence. The emphasis of these workshops will be on identification, but we are fortunate that Manomet, the global leader in shorebird conservation, has a booth at the Festival this year and we will learn about their work in addressing the threats to shorebirds and unravelling the mysteries of shorebird migration.

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND and BAY CRUISE

Fee $120 / Friday, Saturday 6am – 1pm

Sure, spring breakers migrate here in mid-March, but birds make full use of this sub-tropical paradise all year round. Explore boardwalks over coastal marshes, check out the concentrated woodlots and enjoy a cruise on the lovely Laguna Madre. Always a popular trip, so sign up early.

Note: It can be cool on the boat – don't forget your jacket.

Targets: Brown Pelican, Least Bittern, Reddish Egret, Roseate Spoonbill, Peregrine Falcon, Clapper Rail, Sora, Snowy and Piping Plovers, American Oystercatcher, Marbled Godwit, Forster's, Royal, and Sandwich Terns, Black Skimmer, Marsh Wren, lingering migrant songbirds.

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND BIRDING AND NATURE CENTER

Fee $85 /Wednesday, Thursday 6:30am – 1:00pm

The South Padre Island Birding and Nature Center (and Alligator Sanctuary) was built as a part of the World Birding Center and has over 3300 feet of boardwalk! The boardwalk spans salt and freshwater marsh and lagoons, and often yields surprising sightings. Rails can be quite accommodating, and resident alligators are often visible on warm days. Once we've finished at the Birding and Nature Center we'll make a stop at the Valley Land Fund Sheepshead lots to see what might be present. Late fall has turned up a number of surprises here!

Targets: Black-bellied Whistling-Duck, Redhead, Neotropic Cormorant, Reddish Egret, Roseate Spoonbill, Clapper Rail, Sora, Royal Tern, Peregrine Falcon, Tropical Kingbird, Great Kiskadee, Scissor-tailed Flycatcher, Marsh Wren and so much more!

SUNSET SHENANIGANS AT RESACA DE LA PALMA STATE PARK

With Land Sea and Sky & Kowa Optics

Fee $85 / Thursday 5:30pm – 9:00pm

We will travel just down the road to Resaca de la Palma State Park and World Birding Center for an evening of activities! We will arrive about sunset, and we will spend the evening star gazing, black lighting, and looking for creatures of the night. This is a unique opportunity to join Land Sea and Sky for a look through their astronomical telescopes, local lepidopterists for moths, and a chance to look for nocturnal critters. Bark scorpions, tarantulas, and owls (Eastern Screech, Barn, and Great Horned) are possible as are lingering nighthawks. Snack provided.

UPPER RIO GRANDE

Fee $110 / Wednesday, Saturday 5am – 2pm

Luckily for us, birds don't recognize our international borders. The river's wooded edges and the arid uplands of Starr County are rich with both riparian sub-tropical and desert southwest species. The feeding station at Salineño is always a highlight with a colorful frenzy of orioles, kiskadees, and Green Jays! Some rare specialty birds are found along the Rio Grande in this area, and we'll look for them while recognizing that our chances of success are slight. After we've enjoyed the beautiful view of the Rio, we'll move on to Falcon State Park where we'll look for desert specialties.

Targets: Gray Hawk, Zone-tailed Hawk (rare), Red-billed Pigeon (rare), Common Ground-Dove, White-tipped Dove, Greater Roadrunner, Green and Ringed Kingfishers, Cactus Wren, Verdin, White-collared Seedeater (rare), Black-throated Sparrow, Pyrrhuloxia, Hooded (rare), Altamira and Audubon's Orioles.

VALLEY RAPTORS

with Bill Clark

Fee $95 /Wednesday 6:30am – 4pm

Many birders have a special fondness for raptors. Judging by the number of species nesting in, migrating through, or wintering in the Valley, raptors seem to have a similar feeling for the Valley! On this trip, led by Harlingen resident and raptor world-authority Bill Clark (author of Peterson Guide to Hawks, A Photographic Guide to North American Raptors, and Raptors of Mexico and Central America), we'll try our best to see as wide a variety of species as possible in the time available.

Targets: White-tailed Hawk, Hook-billed Kite (very rare in recent years), Gray Hawk, Harris's Hawk, Crested Caracara, Aplomado Falcon.

WESLACO'S URBAN OASES

with Jon Dunn

Fee $65/ Wednesday, Thursday 7:30am to 1pm

This is a wonderful opportunity to bird in a small group with birding icon Jon Dunn, co-author of the National Geographic Society's Field Guide to the Birds of North America, and Peterson Field Guides to Warblers and Gulls of the Americas. On this leisurely tour we'll visit two urban gems in Weslaco – the 15 acres of Frontera Audubon thicket and the 6 acres of Valley Nature Center. Don't be misled by their size – both have attracted an impressive array of Mexican vagrants, including Crimson-collared Grosbeak and Golden-crowned Warbler on previous Festival tours. With their mix of thornbrush, wetlands and butterfly gardens, they provide nesting habitat for many of our Valley specialties and a haven for wintering passerines. Conditions permitting, we will stop at a local sod farm on the way back.

Targets: Black-bellied Whistling-Duck, Plain Chachalaca, Common Ground-Dove, White-tipped Dove, Buff-bellied Hummingbird, Green Kingfisher, Golden-fronted Woodpecker, Tropical and Couch's Kingbirds, Green Jay, Clay-colored Thrush, Long-billed and Curve-billed Thrashers, Olive Sparrow, Altamira Oriole, Lesser Goldfinch.

WHERE THE LOCALS BIRD

Fee $110/ Thursday, Saturday, Sunday– Cameron County 6:30am – 1pm

Wednesday, Friday – Hidalgo County 6:30am – 1pm

Every birder has those out of the way locations, known only to a few, that are close to home and sure to yield a productive day of birding. If you are lucky enough to live in the Rio Grande Valley, these secret jewels become as familiar as your own backyard. Join some of our leading local birders as they share with you a super opportunity to bird the less traveled roads of Hidalgo or Cameron County. Ideal for county listers.

Note: There are no target lists but a variety of habitats will be visited on each trip and participants (no more than eight on each trip) will see many Valley specialties and perhaps a surprise or two.

The following trips will meet at the site.

HUGH RAMSEY PARK (HARLINGEN ARROYO COLORADO WBC)

with local volunteers

Free / Saturday, Sunday 9am & 11am

The 55 acres of this World Birding Center are a microcosm of South Texas habitats enhanced by trails, water features, bird-feeding areas, photographic blinds and extensive plantings of native vegetation. They truly are a birding oasis close to the center of Harlingen, with over 270 recorded species. .

The Park will be open for birding from dusk to dawn throughout the Festival. There are no tours from the Festival itself, but local birders will lead walks for Festival registrants at the Park each morning at 8 & 10 am. Each will last about 90 minutes. You can reserve a place on one of the walks at the registration desk once the Festival opens.

SAN BENITO WETLANDS

with local volunteers

Free / Thursday, Friday 8am & 10am

The restoration of wetlands and riparian habitat on some 65 acres at the San Benito Wetlands is one of the most exciting on-going environmental projects in the area. It's spearheaded by Jaime Flores, the Program Coordinator of the Arroyo Colorado Watershed Partnership, and actively supported by the City of San Benito, the owners of the land.

For the time being, the site can only be entered with specific permission from the City of San Benito. During the Festival, however, there will be guided walks led by local birders at 8am and 10am each morning. You can reserve a place on one of the walks at the registration desk once the Festival opens or call 209-227-4823. In addition, anyone attending the Festival will be allowed entry to walk the trails between 2pm and 5pm each afternoon from the 9th to the 13th. Sign in at the Welcome tent Just take a little care when walking, particularly after wet weather.

The site is well worth visiting. Almost 200 species have been seen to date (it is an eBird hotspot), and at times the sheer numbers of cormorants, herons, egrets and wildfowl can be overwhelming.

Young, Broke, and Birding: Why Fledging as a Birder is the Best

with Christina Baal

Fee $20 or Free with Kiskadee Pass / Saturday 4pm

We've all done crazy things for the sake of watching birds. Whether it's dropping more than a mortgage payment on optics, skipping work to go chase a rare bird, or filling a pantry with more birdseed than human food, birders go all-out. Want to put crazy into perspective? Join artist Christina Baal as she recounts the outrageous lengths she has gone to for the sake of finding birds. When you are a twenty-something wandering bird artist, low budgets but relentless creativity make for some questionable decisions and hilarious adventures while finding your way in the world. Spoiler alert: there will be raccoons. And alligators. BONUS tutorial: Flirting for Birders 101.

Christina Baal is a wandering bird artist whose dream is to meet and paint 10,000 different species of birds. She discovered the world of birding as a student at Bard College in the Hudson Valley. After graduating with a BA in Studio Art in 2014, she started her own art business, "Drawing 10,000 Birds," and set out to find birds. Christina's adventures have taken her across the country and around the globe to places like Costa Rica, Alaska, the Galápagos, and Japan. Her art has been featured at a number of birding festivals and events, including The Biggest Week in American Birding, Space Coast Birding and Wildlife Festival, and New Jersey Audubon's World Series of Birding. Most recently, she painted the 2022 Bird of the Year, the Burrowing Owl, for the American Birding Association. While not painting and chasing birds, Christina works as an environmental educator, bird guide, and art instructor so that she can share her love of birds and art. Christina lives in Pinnacles National Park with her partner and their adorable golden retrievers and enjoys having California Condors (her favorite bird) as yard birds!

The Mystery of Sociality in South Texas Harris's Hawks: Is Cooperative Hunting Adaptive?

With Jim Bednarz & Brooke Poplin

Fee $15 or Free with Kiskadee Pass / Thursday 2pm

Harris's Hawks, perhaps the coolest birds of prey in the south Texas region, exhibit both cooperative breeding (where more than two hawks are associated with a nest) and sophisticated cooperative hunting behavior. These behaviors have been mostly studied in Arizona and New Mexico and the reported benefits have been disputed and debated.

Recent research by the University of North Texas (UNT) Harris's Hawk research team have documented that over half of all Harris's Hawk nesting groups in south Texas include 3 or more hawks and that groups actively participate in dramatic cooperative hunts. With this project, we intend to document the frequency and sophistication of cooperative hunting and sociality in Harris' Hawks by conducting intensive focal behavioral observations on radio-tagged hawks.

Questions we plan to address include: 1) How often and when do the hawks cooperatively hunt? 2) How large are the hunting parties? 3) How successful is cooperative hunting? 4) What factors favor cooperative hunting? 5) What prey are taken by cooperative hunting? And more! These data are vital in helping to finally solve the mystery of “helper” Harris’s Hawks at the nest! Importantly, also understanding this mystery will provide key information in formulating conservation measures to ensure that the unique social system of this very cool raptor is not disturbed by alteration of habitat or other human activities. Any contribution to this project will be greatly appreciated!

Jim Bednarz received his BS degree in Wildlife Biology from New Mexico State University, completed a M.S. degree Iowa State University studying Red-shouldered Hawks, and his Ph.D. degree working on Harris’s Hawks at the University of New Mexico. Jim has conducted research on six continents for four decades emphasizing avian population ecology, behavioral ecology, and conservation. Although most of this work has been focused on birds of prey and Neotropical migratory songbirds, he has also conducted research on shorebirds, colonial waterbirds, waterfowl, woodpeckers, quail, and wild turkeys. Jim is probably most recognized for his long-term research on Harris’s Hawks in New Mexico and current work in south Texas. He is currently a Principal Lecturer at the University of North Texas (UNT) and works closely mentoring graduate and undergraduate students conducting a variety of research on amazing birds!

Brooke Poplin is a graduate student at UNT currently pursuing her Biology M.S. She will co-lead the study on the social behavior of Harris’s Hawks which entails using VHF radio telemetry in conjunction with direct behavioral observations on social groups. Brooke has been interested in ornithology since her early undergrad program and participated in an American Kestrel behavioral study and field research on the breeding ecology of the Painted Bunting. Beginning in the senior year of Brooke’s undergraduate program, her passion for raptors was ignited when she participated in a Red-tailed Hawk genetics project in addition to helping band American Kestrels in Denton County, Texas. Her ultimate career goal is to become a raptor biologist, one day becoming a professor to help inspire diversity and accessibility in the world of ecology. When Brooke is not pursuing her research interests, she loves to go hiking with her dog Axyl and expanding her “life list” by birding in new places.

Bird Rescue, Rehabilitation, and Release

With Dr. Tomas deMaar

Fee $15 or Free with Kiskadee Pass / Thursday 4pm

Both the Bible and the Quran instruct that baby birds should be returned to safety and care of their mother. In the last 50 years the science and practice of wildlife rehabilitation has developed into a discipline of its own. As man’s footprint on the land becomes ever larger, interactions and conflicts between man and bird species become more frequent, more serious, and cause greater impacts on the future. Dr. deMaar will introduce the process of bird rescue, rehabilitation, and release; describe actual cases; and discuss ethical considerations, legal requirements, public interactions, and humane euthanasia. What can you do in the field to triage a bird-in-distress situation, secure an injured bird, and locate a wildlife rehabilitator?

Dr. Thomas deMaar has been a wildlife and zoo veterinarian for 30 years embracing this extreme form of multiple species “one medicine”. During his career he worked with several zoos in the United States; operated a wildlife conservation medicine practice in Kenya for 8 years; cared for domestic livestock in Mexico, Uganda, and Pakistan; consulted for federal and state wildlife agencies; taught at Tufts University, the University of Nairobi, and the University of Texas; and mentored students from numerous countries ranging from high school to graduate school. Along the way Dr. deMaar has practiced wildlife rehabilitation for thousands of mammals, birds, and reptiles in many settings. He is currently the attending veterinarian for Sea Turtle, Inc. on South Padre Island, Texas.

WINTERING ECOLOGY OF THE AMERICAN KESTREL: THE BEHAVIOR, SURVIVAL, AND FUTURE OF THESE WINTER TEXANS

With Kelsey Biles

Fee $15 or Free with Kiskadee Pass / Friday 2pm

American Kestrels (Falco sparverius) are the smallest raptor species in the US. Unfortunately, kestrel populations have been in a steady decline since the collection of reliable population trend data began in the 1960s. Past research has shown that their survivorship and reproduction have been relatively unchanged during the breeding season, so we have begun to examine their wintering areas and migratory routes. In Texas, we have a large kestrel population that migrates in each winter to take advantage of our milder temperatures and abundance of insect prey. We monitored the survival and behaviors of these kestrels across five winters and began attempting to track their migration more recently. Here, I will present this research, containing our insights into the kestrels' struggles to survive and our attempts to study them.

Kelsey Biles is an avian ecologist with a passion for conservation and raptor research. She is currently the Conservation Director at Houston Audubon, where she works towards conserving urban and coastal bird populations across southeast Texas. She has a PhD in Biology from the University of North Texas, where she studied American Kestrel conservation. In her previous years of conservation research, she led teams and mentored undergraduate students in deepening their hands-on experience of bird conservation practices. Kelsey is a native Texan and has lived in many towns, big and small, across the state. She received her Bachelor of Science in Biology from the University of Texas at Arlington and Master of Science in Biology from Baylor University.

BIRD CITY TEXAS

With Yvette Stewart
Fee $15 or Free with Kiskadee Pass / Saturday 2pm

Audubon Texas and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department embarked on a partnership for urban conservation more than 5 years ago, creating a new community certification program called Bird City Texas (BCT). The goal of the program is to recognize and encourage effective, impactful native bird conservation where people live, work, and recreate. We know that birds, and many forms of wildlife, are facing tremendous challenges. We also know that every community, from large urban centers to small rural towns, can provide important, healthy habitat for birds. This presentation will discuss the importance of native bird conservation in Texas communities, from both the community engagement aspect as well as the 'value-added' aspects, and how communities outside of Texas could consider launching a similar science-based program.

Yvette Stewart joined Audubon Texas in 2018. As the Community Outreach Coordinator, her priority projects are Bird City Texas, an urban conservation certification program in partnership with TPWD and the Audubon Conservation Leaders Program, a high school conservation program in Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio. Yvette comes to Audubon Texas with a degree in Wildlife and Conservation Biology from the University of Rhode Island and has recently attained her Masters of Education in Curriculum and Instruction from University of Texas. Yvette is a former AmeriCorps service member, a passionate birder and a lover of all creatures, from tiny spiders to soaring eagles. Yvette is most happy when she's helping people to learn and grow in the great outdoors!
